Neural Science

NYU Shanghai

NYU Shanghai invites applications for several assistant (tenure-track), associate (tenured), and full professor (tenured) positions from candidates with research programs in systems, computational, and cognitive neuroscience. Candidates with interests in decision-making, theory and computational modeling, and human functional brain imaging are particularly encouraged to apply. The recruited faculty will also become members of a new neuroscience research institute, with the primary goal of understanding the mechanisms by which neural circuits in the brain generate cognition, language, and flexible behavior. Scholars in the area of decision-making will have the opportunity to join NYU's international neuroeconomics group which is developing a significant presence in Shanghai. Neuroscientists at NYU Shanghai will have the opportunity to interact and collaborate with researchers in Economics, Mathematics, Data Science, and Engineering.

NYU Shanghai faculty may also spend time at NYU New York and others sites of NYU's global network, engaging in both teaching and research. Faculty members in neural science may also have an opportunity to be affiliated with various academic units at New York, including the Center for Neural Science, the Neuroscience Institute of NYU's School of Medicine, and the Department of Psychology.

Candidates must have completed a Ph.D. or equivalent by the time of application. The successful candidates will be expected to develop an independent, extramurally-funded research program, play a key role in the growth of the new Neuroscience Institute, and teach in NYU Shanghai.

The terms of employment in NYU Shanghai are comparable to U.S. institutions in terms of research start-up funds and compensation, and include housing subsidies and educational subsidies for children. Applications are due no later than December 15, 2014 for appointments to begin as early as July 2015. To be considered, applicants should submit a curriculum vitae, separate statements of research and teaching interests (no more than three pages each), and electronic copies of up to three recent relevant publications.
